Biography

Peter Elliott began his professional career as a senior security specialist in the security operations center of First National Bank. He transitioned into construction as a framer and apprentice plumber, primarily focusing on commercial buildings, which eventually led to work as a property claims adjuster.

Building on his experience in insurance claims and property losses, Peter became a project manager/estimator. Later, he worked for a full-service general contractor, which sparked his interest in building consultation. Reach out to Peter Elliott today for his expertise on your next project.
