Biography

Caleb Gibbs is a Construction Scheduling Consultant with experience in project controls, CPM scheduling, and construction consulting. He is a valued member of the construction consulting team at YA Group, where he supports complex construction programs through structured scheduling, critical path analysis, and schedule performance evaluation.

Caleb serves as part of a project controls group supporting a leading technology and semiconductor fabrication client. His experience spans large-scale commercial developments, educational facilities, hospitality projects, and major roadway and infrastructure improvements. His work has included schedule development and review, sequencing validation, progress assessment, and the analysis of schedule impacts to support informed decision-making across project teams.

Earlier in his career, Caleb utilized industry-standard tools such as Primavera P6 and the Microsoft Suite to deliver clear, reliable project controls support. He applied these tools to develop and analyze schedules, validate construction sequencing, and support project teams in identifying risks and maintaining project timelines.
